

MARTINMAS SEMESTER SCHOOL SEMINARS
(2017-2018)

- 01 September Ambrogio Cesa-Bianchi, Bank of England
International Credit Supply Shocks
- 21 September Alwyn Young, LSE
Consistency without Inference: Instrumental Variables in Practical Application
- 28 September Refet Gurkaynak, Bilkent University
Identifying the Effects of Partially-Measured News Surprises
- 05 October Pawel Dziewulski, University of Oxford
Eliciting the just-noticeable difference
- 12 October Martin Ellison, University of Oxford
Managing the UK National Debt 1694-2017
- 19 October Karl Schlag, University of Vienna
How to Play Out of Equilibrium: Beating the Average
- 02 November Sven Rady, University of Bonn
Strongly Symmetric Equilibria in Bandit Games
- 09 November Rosemarie Nagel, Pompeu Fabra University
Strategic Nudging in Beauty Contest Games
- 16 November Giacomo Ponzetto, CREI
Fundamental Errors in the Voting Booth
- 23 November Thomas Epper, University of Zurich and St Gallen
Heterogenous Time Discounting and Wealth Inequality
- 30 November Roberto Bonfatti, University of Nottingham
Priority roads: the political economy of connecting mines versus cities in West Africa, 1965-2012
- 14 December Ryota Iijima, Yale University
Dispersed Behavior and Perceptions in Assortative Societies
-

CANDLEMAS SEMESTER SCHOOL SEMINARS
(2017-2018)

- 08 February Michael Richter, Royal Holloway
Breadth versus Depth
- 15 February Torfinn Harding, Norwegian School of Economics
Environmental Regulation and Commodity Prices: Evidence from Deforestation in Brazil
- 01 March Jean-Baptiste Michau, Ecole Polytechnique
Secular Stagnation: Theory and Remedies
- 08 March Georg Weizsacker, Humboldt University of Berlin
Learning from unrealized versus realized prices
- 05 April Steven Poelhekke, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam
Mining Matters: Natural Resource Extraction and Firm-Level Constraints (with Ralph de Haas)
- 12 April Thomas Samspon, LSE
The Productivity Slowdown and the Declining Labor Share: A Neoclassical Exploration
- 18 April Martin Browning, Institute for Fiscal Studies
Do you have time to take a walk together? Private and joint time within the household
- 19 April Michael Kumhoff, Bank of England
Banks Are Not Intermediaries of Loanable Funds - And Why This Matters
- 03 May Michael Wolf, UZH
Large Dynamic Covariance Matrices
- 10 May John Quah, Johns Hopkins University
Revealed Price Preference: theory and empirical analysis
- 15 May Linda Goldberg, FED New York
The shifting drivers of global liquidity
- 24 May Doug Gollin, Oxford University
Heterogeneity, Measurement Error, and Misallocation: Evidence from African Agriculture
-